

I must voice my deepest opposition to this NPRM and disappointment with the FAA. While I can appreciate the FAA's efforts to provide security for the country, this proposal is both misguided and fruitless. Rules such as these would not have stopped the 9/11 terrorists and will only serve place the flying community at risk of losing their licenses for reasons that may be never revealed publically and have nothing to do with FAA's historic purpose of promoting flight safety.

We all understand what we are fighting against. That's clear. However, I must remind my government what we are fighting for, which are the freedoms that make this country unique in history and the envy of the world. Please rethink your position on this NPRM and direct your efforts towards more productive pursuits.
